

COVID-19 VACCINE COVERAGE AND FAQ

January 5, 2021

Overview: Currently the USFDA has approved two vaccines for distribution, one manufactured by Pfizer, the other by Moderna. Both are a two-shot series, and each state is receiving an allotment as determined by the federal government based on a schedule shared with the state.

Who can get the COVID-19 vaccine?

The CDC's recommendation is to cover the COVID-19 vaccine in phases, with healthcare personnel and residents of long-term care facilities in phase 1a, with frontline essential workers, people aged 75 years or older and people aged 65-74, 16-64 years with underlying medical conditions, other essential workers receiving vaccines in phases 1b and 1c, respectively. How will the COVID-19 vaccine series be covered?

People with the following types of coverage will be eligible to get the COVID-19 vaccine: Original Medicare, a Medicare Advantage Plan, a Medicare health plan, Medicaid, Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), Basic Health Program (BHP), and private health plans. People who only have coverage through limited benefit packages for Medicaid may not be covered.

What is the cost of the COVID-19 vaccine series and how is it paid for?

The COVID-19 vaccine will be available to everyone for free, regardless of coverage status. Individuals will not pay coinsurance, deductibles, or copayments. The vaccine will be federally purchased - funding through the CARES Act will pay for the vaccine.

For Medicare beneficiaries, billing for the vaccine will occur through the Part B benefit. How that service and drug are billed is dictated by the federal government and, for those on original Medicare, this will be handled by you provider. The COVID-19 vaccine series will NOT be paid for under Part D, the Medicare prescription drug benefit, regardless of where it is administered (either at a physician's office or through a pharmacy).
